Mexico Child Link

- The Mexico Child Link Trust is a registered charity, founded in 1992 in response to the needs of abandoned children with learning disability. It is governed by a group of seven trustees from Northern Ireland. We are non-denominational, unaffiliated to any religious or political group.
- We work in partnership with Fundación Trébol, a Mexican charitable foundation which we fund and advise.
- We support a project for abandoned children with learning disabilities, near the town of Atlixco, Mexico. The children live on a small farm in 2 adobe houses where they are cared for in a family setting. The farm, based upon sustainable agriculture, provides a degree of self sufficiency for the project and allows the children to learn useful skills.
- We also support training programmes for children with learning disabilities in institutions in the Puebla area of Mexico as well as the local special school in Atlixco. We fund an advice and information service on learning disability and a carpentry training workshop.
